N.Y. Senator to Discuss "Culture in America"

by Joanne Bennett

The honorable Jacob K. Javits, a Republican United States Senator from New York, will be the guest speaker at Ithaca College's 3rd Annual Convocation this Saturday, October 17th.

The Honorable Jacob J. Javits, Republican Senator from New York

The Convocation will take place at the Presbyterian Church at the corner of Court and Cayuga streets at 10:30 a.m.

Culture in America is the subject of Senator Javits' speech. Senator Javits hopes to "stimulate artistic achievement" by the introduction of a bill in Congress which will call for the establishment of a United States Arts Foundation.

Advocating this theme in an article which appeared in the New York Times, he said that culture "needs help and needs it badly". "Federal Government must lend a hand, in accordance with widely accepted Licolian philosophy that Federal Government has responsibility to help people do those things that they cannot do for themselves."

Born in New York City

Senator Javits was born May 18, 1902 in New York City. George Washington High School saw him as President of his graduating class in 1920.

In 1926, after taking supplement night courses at Columbia University, he graduated from N.Y.U. Law school.

Later, after being admitted to the bar in 1927, he was a partner in the law firm of Javits, Moore, and Trubin.

Entering the Army as a Major in 1942, he went on to receive the Legion of Merit and Army Commendation Ribbon. Receiving his discharge in 1945 at Lt. Col. he resumed his law practice.

Past Attorney General

From 1947-54 Senator Javits served as a member of Congress from the 21st Congressional District. He was elected Attorney General of New York on May 2, 1954.

Since November 6, 1956 he has served as U.S. Senator from New York.

With his wife, the former Marion Ann Boris, and his three children, Joy, Joshua, and Carla, he resides in Manhattan.

Support Fall Weekend

While standing in line in the snack-bar waiting for my nine o'clock cup of black coffee and two-day old donut which I usually get for half price, I couldn't help over hearing two students discussing Fall Weekend. The conversation went something like this—"So what are you doing Fall Weekend?" A reply from the other student who was frantically trying to locate his fork was—"Going home I guess . . . nothing much doing here." By this time, he had found his fork which had mysteriously fallen into his scrambled eggs and now he proceeded to find a seat. I'm still not sure if he ever did . . . as this is virtually impossible at nine o'clock (snack-bar time).

His remark, however, "Going home . . . nothing doing here" concerned me. It was a remark of an old I.C. of bygone years. Friend, there is plenty doing here. Fall Weekend promises to be one of the most important events of the social calendar. The Student Council, the fraternities, sororities, and campus organizations are all working together to insure the best possible weekend in the college's history. The jam session, the formal "Indian Love Call", the Sunday breakfast and afternoon picnic are part of the schedule planned. Oh yes, a few students will voice the opinion that we should all go home because it's just a college weekend and the Starlight Roof of the Waldorf is the only place to go . . . but honestly the only thing that can make any dance or weekend a success are the students.

This weekend is for everyone. If you don't have a car, no need to worry as the dance is being held at the V.F.W. just a few blocks from the college. There are plenty of rooming houses and girl's dorms for out of town dates, and the price of the tickets for the entire weekend will be $4.00.

Come on I.C.—support Fall Weekend 1959.—It's up to you if the weekend is to be successful or not. With the help of the student body—it's a sure thing that Fall Weekend 1959 will be a memorable occasion in your life at the college.

Remember the dates . . . October 16, 17, 18. By the way what are you doing Fall Weekend? Why not attend the Weekend and have a ball?

THE SACRIFICE SUPREME: Comrades,

In fulfillment of part of the requirements of becoming a member of Ken Murray's L.A. (Loafers Anonymous, I at once gave up my titled positions on the Supreme Soviet and my honorary P.F.C. commission with the Eighth Route Army, and signed my name to a copy of the Constitution of the L. A.

While I am all in favor of being a loafer, I feel that being an anonymous loafer is foolish in that the movement is doomed to failure if it is anonymous. Perhaps one solution would be in overthrowing the studios. This might be accomplished if all of the loafers banded together in a general strike.

The first step in the "revolution" would be to form a Loafers Local, or cell in order to push the ideas of the movement on the local level.

While there will probably be some antagonism towards such an organization, plans should be made immediately for a loafer's underground to take over the objectives of the "front organization", when these organizations are overthrown by students who wish to remain decadent and continue with the corrupting practice of studying.

Sincerely,
Nicolai

P.S. You must remember that our ultimate goal would be to eventually have a one party system with everyone being a full fledged loafer.

PLAYDAY

The next scheduled playday for the Woman's Athletic Association will be held on November 7 in Ithaca.

RECITAL

There will be another program in the Faculty Recital Series on October 18, in the Ithaca College Music Hall. The program will consist of Sonatas of Beethoven for violin and piano.

On a Football Game

One beautiful Indian Summer day not too long ago we found ourselves seated in the stands at a college football game. The stands were crowded with spectators, who, for the most part, were college students. Most of them seemed quite content and gave the impression that they were enjoying the festivities of the afternoon.

During the course of the afternoon we had the occasion to observe our fellow watchers in some detail. As the afternoon progressed it became clearer that the behavior of our fellow watchers was most interesting and altogether different from the behavior that one would expect from a large group of college students at a college football game.

The first thing that we noticed was that, surprisingly enough, these fellow watchers of ours were remarkably well behaved ladies and gentlemen. Now it had always seemed to us that being well behaved was very commendable, but certainly it was less expected in the stands of a football field than somewhere else, say for example the office of a Dean.

Football is, and always has been, a game that involves some of the basic emotions of man: namely conflict, pride, bravery, fear, not to mention all the other modern day associations of the game such as group association, teamwork, discipline and many more. We had always thought that a game that held these basic meanings and associations for both the players and the spectators should call for reactions from the spectators which befitted the nature of the game. In other words, one would think that the spectators would react basically. At most football games the spectators do react basically. They yell, jump up and down, stamp their feet, groan, smile, laugh, poke their neighbor, etc. This is natural.

But at this particular game the responses were not of this nature. My fellow watchers did very little screaming and yelling, less jumping up and down, and practically no poking at all. They seemed to be content with verbal comments on the action such as "nice run Sam", or "good catch Joe". Very few of the spectators ever raised their voices above normal level, and when they did it was only at prescribed times when the cheer leaders probed the stands into replying to the "Give me an I" or "Hold that line" cheers. Why, we wondered, were our fellow watchers so well behaved? Why didn't they yell, or scream, or jump up and down, or poke their neighbor?

Then came the revelation. Why these were college students! These spectators who were our fellow onlookers were adult college students. We had completely overlooked that fact that college students are supposed to be adults. College students are supposed to have mastered the adult qualities of meeting responsibility, budgeting time and money and generally being independent. And, of course, the adult college student just wouldn't be totally adult if he or she didn't pick up a bit of sophistication along the way.

Well, anyway, we had overlooked the fact that these fellow spectators of ours were "adult college students". So, they sat—like adult college students. They sat in all their demure adulthood while down on the field a conflict evolving some of the most basic emotions of man continued in the autumn afternoon.

When it was all over we asked ourselves; what ever happened to all those childish, immature, honest to goodness dyed in the wool football fans who used to yell and scream and jump up and down and poke their neighbors at football games? What ever happened to those college students who used to get excited at football games? Apparently they were lost somewhere in the shuffle. They were left behind in the race to assume all that adult responsibility, budget all that adult time, and accumulate all that adult sophistication. And after all is said and done it really wouldn't do for college students to get really excited and let go at a football game would it? It wouldn't be proper. It just wouldn't be adult.

Bradshaw leads I.C. to 29-6 Win

by Jim Aversa

The high-flying Ithaca College Bombers led by fleet-footed Jim Bradshaw overpowered Kings College of Wilkes Barre, Pa., 29-6 on the latters gridiron last Saturday.

Bradshaw contributed touchdown runs of 91 and 18 yards respectively, as he amassed 209 yards in 16 carries.

Meanwhile, the always-tough IC defensive unit refused to yield ground as they held the Lions to a meager 24 yards rushing.

The Bombers were touchdown-bound seconds after the opening whistle, only to have consecutive 15-yard penalties delay their initial bid. Gerry Neufang finally hit paydirt from five yards out and added the two-point conversion via an aerial from Bob Ryan.

Early in the second period, Jim Bradshaw capped a 74 yard drive with his 18 yard touchdown jaunt. Ryan faked a placement and ran for the conversion. With time running out in the first half, Kings fumbled deep in its own territory and the Bombers took quick advantage sending John Demby over from the four. The extra point bid failed and IC held a comfortable 22-0 halftime lead.

Kings broke into the scoring column midway through the third period on a 70 yard pass play. Lion signal caller Don Distasio's aerial was deflected by two IC defenders before bouncing into the arms of King's Van Brunt who raced for the Lions lone score of the game.

Moments later, IC fumbled. Kings then penetrated to the Bomber 9 before yielding. On the very next play Bradshaw uncorked his "one for the road" 91 yard jaunt that had the sparse IC following to its feet. After taking a Ryan hand-off, Jim shook off two would be tacklers and raced downfield unmolested. Guinan added the 29th point via a placement.

College Television Station Features Five New Programs

by Arnie Reif

Under the guidance of Ted Kav-anau, the Ithaca College television studios will feature many changes and new ideas this year.

The major change is the increase in the number of shows to be presented, for instead of five shows there will be ten, five of which will appear for the first time this year.

A scattered schedule will be used so that the station will not seriously conflict with the regular programming of channel two, which is the channel the college station uses while on the air.

Another reason for the different hours each night is the fact that some shows are geared for an earlier audience and some for later listeners.

The air time will run from six to nine with the shows coming in a block of one hour, with two shows a night.

The policy remains the same this year, in that there will be student assistant directors who may have the opportunity to become directors.

Special programs will be a feature again this year.

This Saturday the station will do a broadcast direct from the convocation.

Basketball games played at home will be televised, and presentation of political events is planned.

New shows this year will include: News, a roundup of the week's news, G.E. Science Show, Teen Age Grand Jury, Professor Guidance, Locker Room Outlook, a sports review, and a show by Dr. Abend called The Nature of Fanaticism.

Showcase returns from last year with Chester Curtis as the host. More comedy acts will be featured this year than last with Jack Cantwell, Ken Murray, and Charlie Moss supplying the humor.

Also back from last year will be Tempo which featured Sigma Alpha Iota on its first show Monday night.

Controversy and Community Spotlight round out the programming.

The schedule is as follows:

MONDAY

7:00-7:30—News
7:30-8:00—Tempo

TUESDAY

7:30-8:00—Controversy
8:00-8:30—G.E. Science

THURSDAY

It was dark in the little sleeping bag. Miguel pulled off one boot. He pulled off the other boot. His mind was on the beer. Not far off, the colorful toros were strumming on their muchachos. The wind was restless in the trees. He thought of the beer.

"I will have the Schaefer now. The beer."

Teresa brought it to him. "What do you hear in the best of circles?" she asked. "Schaefer all around!" he said. It was a little ritual they had between them. It was a very good ritual. She watched him drink la cerveza real—the real beer. "How goes it?" she said. She was blushing.

"It goes well. It is of the palate. It is of the throat."

"Has it a smooth round flavor?"

"It has a smooth round flavor."

"What does round mean?" She was afraid he would think her a fool.

"You are a fool," he said. "Round means never sharp, round means never flat."

"The Schaefer beer is round," she smiled.

"I drink to you, mi vida," he said.

"I drink to you, dumbkopf," she said.

They were quiet together, thinking of the Schaefer. Somewhere the conquistadores began to sing softly. The time of the Schaefer was a good time.
